Welcome to the InnQuirer

Welcome to the Spring 2014 edition of the Furness InnQuirer. As I write this the sun is shining outside so hopefully the weather will encourage all of us to get out and sample more of our wonderful Cumbrian ales.

This edition has a new section which provides details of all the establishments that provide discounts to CAMRA members. If this is of interest to you see page 7.

'Meet The Brewer' on page 13 gives an insight from Ian Bradley at the Coniston Brewing Company which is one of our longer established breweries.

Many thanks to all who contributed to this issue, especially Ron Smith, who has put pen to paper for the first time and contributed two articles including details of his first year of CAMRA membership.

Perhaps he will be an inspiration to you all to have a go as well. All articles, comments, letters and photographs gratefully received.

Cheers,

From the Chair

by Dave Stubbins - Furness Branch Chairman

We were of course delighted that the Chancellor of the Exchequer again reduced the duty on a pint of beer by another penny in the last budget, the second reduction in two years.

Whilst this may seem to be a small amount we have to realise that, had the previous policy in relation to beer duty been pursued, we would not only have had an increase in duty in line with inflation but also the dreaded beer duty escalator. So we are considerably better off than we would have been which is in no small part a result of the effective campaigning by CAMRA and other bodies.

Locally, I'm delighted to report that the Prince of Wales at Foxfield has been selected by our branch members as Furness area Pub of the Year. Congratulations go to Lynda and Stuart Johnson for their continuing commitment to high quality beers and ciders.

Club of the Year was Millom Rugby Union Football Club which continues to serve a range of beers that are the envy of visiting teams.

We are always keen to recognise the emergence of new pubs that are serving consistently good beers and we were delighted to reward the Bear on the Square in Millom with our Pub of the Season award for Winter 2013.

I referred last time to the forthcoming Manchester Beer and Cider Festival at the Velodrome. I'm especially pleased to report that the event attracted over 10,000 visitors. It was quite exhilarating to watch the Great Britain cycling team performing in the arena whilst sampling a wonderful selection of beers.

For the first time a Cumbria Food and Beer festival, along the lines of the regular event held in Cockermouth each September, will take place in Ulverston over the bank holiday weekend at the end of May. Many of the pubs in Ulverston, and the Ulverston Brewing Company's brewery, will be stocking a much broader range of beers and it is intended that every Cumbrian brewer will be represented.

I would also like to remind you that the WhatPub database of pubs nationally is now available to all and is well worth using as a source of reference. CAMRA members can additionally submit scores on the beers which is a fun thing to do and greatly assists us in selecting pubs for the Good Beer Guide.

CAMRA Discounts

by Dave Stubbins - Furness Branch Chairman

Those of you who are CAMRA members will already be aware of the extensive range of benefits available on membership. Of these, probably the most widely used are the 50p off a pint vouchers issued by Wetherspoons.

However, we are aware that a number of pubs in our area offer discounts on beer and accommodation so have put together a list of such establishments. Details will also be on our web site - www.furness.camra.org.uk.

Discounts are available to CAMRA members on production of their membership card.

Please accept our apologies if we have missed you off our list and let us have the details which we will publish in the next issue and record on our WhatPub database.

In order for this list to be as complete as possible we are asking all pubs that offer discounts to get in touch and let us know the discount offered, whether or not you think we already know.

The information we are seeking is-

- The discount on a pint of real ale, whether % or in pence
- The period during which this discount is available (if not at all times)

Current Discounts

The Kings Arms, Cartmel

The Royal Oak, Cartmel

The Engine Inn, Cark

The Yewdale Hotel, Coniston

The Tower Bank Arms, Near Sawrey

This is of course in addition to the Furness Railway in Barrow-in-Furness which, being a Wetherspoons pub, offers the discount of 50 pence off a pint available in all Wetherspoons outlets.

The Prince of Wales at Foxfield offers discounted accommodation to CAMRA members.

I look forward to hearing from you.

To the Far West....

by Ron Smith - Furness Branch Member

During the AGM it was decided that some of the pubs and clubs in the west of the Furness Branch territory were due to have certificates presented, and so it was agreed that Saturday 1st March would be as good a date as any.

Sixteen souls were collected by bus from Walney, Barrow, Askam, Dalton and Ulverston and transported to Millom where our first stop was 'The Bear in the Square'.

Once there we were joined by several other members who had made their own way and a Branch Meeting was held. A couple of breaks were had to enable the refilling of glasses and the choice was excellent. Tyne Bank brewery's Mocha Milk Stout 6% and Pacifica 4.0% proved popular along with Redemption brewery's Hotspur 4.5% and Trinity 3.0% and Bramling's Black Jack 4.0%.

However the most popular break was for some sausages and sausage rolls which, it was agreed, were probably the best we had tasted in a long time. Thanks to the Bear for their excellent hospitality.

Following the Branch Meeting, the opportunity was taken to present the 'Bear in the Square' with the Furness Branch Pub of the Season,

Winter 2013/14 and the chairman commented on how satisfying it was to support a pub that was working so hard at maintaining standards. It was lovely to see the pub so healthy and full with people of all ages.

We then moved on to the 'Millom Rugby Union Football Club' next to the beach at Haverigg. The team were heavily engaged in a game with Carlisle when we arrived and we were able to take time to sample Wychwood brewery beers Dirty Tackle 4.0% and Piledriver 4.3% as well as Coniston Bluebird XB 4.2%. At half time our chairman Dave Stubbins presented the club with the Furness Club of the Year certificate.

Onward to Broughton where we broke our journey at the Manor Arms where Scott was celebrating being at the helm for five years. There was the usual superb range of beers to choose from including Yates Bitter 3.7% and Corby Blonde 4.2%. As this was a celebration there were two Anniversary Ales on and a lot of us managed to test both of them before it was time to move on.

The last official part of the trip was at the Prince of Wales in Foxfield where we were able to present the Pub of the Year award to Lynda. Once again we were fortunate to benefit from the superb food that Lynda had organised and it was very welcome. As normal, there was a brilliant choice of beers on offer including Foxfield Dark Mild 3.6% and Proper Bitter 3.1% along with Tigertops Hop Raw 4.1% and Black Bull 5.9% and Healeys Blonde 4.0% was available as well.

4.0%, Best 4.2% and Mild 3.7%, all excellent beers.

Finally it was time to drop off the happy souls after a successful and very enjoyable afternoon and evening.

The final stop was agreed to be the Wellington at Loppergarth. We were met with a very busy pub and found out there was a 40th birthday party being held there. I reckon we must have made their day!! On the pumps were Healeys Golden 3.6%, Blonde

Thanks must go to the pubs and clubs for having us, Dave Latham for organising everything, Dave Stubbins for the speeches and most of all the merry bunch who support these trips and make each of these days so enjoyable.
Cheers. Ron

Can the crafty newcomer become a working partner?

For some years prior to the appearance of CAMRA on the scene there had been a rising groundswell of concern amongst the ranks of beer drinkers across the nation. The source of this concern was the appearance of a new breed of mass produced beers, distinguishable, if that's the right word, by their blandness and lack of character. They were the vision of the future conjured up by the so-called 'Big Six' of the brewing industry, who were emerging triumphant, as they thought themselves to be, from the takeover and closure feeding frenzy that had been raging throughout the brewing scene for some time. The principal idea behind their creation seems to have been to produce a stable, reliable alternative to the traditional, cask-conditioned form with its live yeast working away in the barrel, and which had been almost universal up until their appearance.

Laudable as their original conception may have been, what the great British beer drinkers ended up with were near-tasteless, over-carbonated brews that bore little resemblance to their troublesome and difficult to handle, but full of character traditional counterparts.

The nightmare scenario of a future in which these characterless brews would become the norm across the land, aided by the snuffing out of local and even regional sources of beer production, began to alarm the serious beer drinking public. This situation was compounded by it becoming apparent that among the smaller local and regional brewers remaining active on the brewing scene a not inconsiderable number were contemplating switching from cask to keg, having been persuaded that the brewery-conditioned version of their standard beers was the way forward.

Back then the gulf between the new filtered and pasteurised, but stable, keg beers and their cask-conditioned, but less stable, versions seemed unbridgeable. What was it to be for the beer lovers of the time, go along with consistent but bland, or push for the survival of the often variable but full of character and depth of flavour cask beers?

So began the long, uphill struggle to save what remained of diversity in the country's brewing industry and their cask beers by highlighting their products and urging the nation's beer drinkers to seek them out at every opportunity. It became their battle cry, and there is no need to re-live the story from thereon, as it is more than adequately recorded in CAMRA's history.

That was then, and this is now, the second decade of the 21st century, and many would argue that the battle is won, with hundreds of brewing enterprises and a wider diversity of tasty cask-conditioned beers available across the land than there has been for the best part of a century. CAMRA's ranks are swelling and the number of those championing the cause of cask ale has never been so large. However, marking time and maintaining the status quo is not an option, either in the world of beer or anywhere else for that matter. Innovation and a willingness to experiment and be creative has won over many new fans to cask beer, especially amongst the younger drinkers now beginning to explore the world of beer, and what do we now find re-appearing on the brewing scene after being branded the kid-in-the-naughty-corner for so long?

Keg beer!

It never actually went away, of course, but having been increasingly marginalised in recent times its slice of the cake had become slimmer with the passage of time and the assertiveness of the cask-conditioned variety. However, the latter's days in the ascendancy may about to be challenged, not so much by a young upstart but by a re-invigorated and re-invented old one.

Let me be clear, I'm not referring here to the so-called 'smooth' beers, the filtered and pasteurised ones with the shaving foam-like top produced by a 70% / 30% carbon dioxide and nitrogen gas mix, a style that has its own niche in the market. What I'm referring to is the appearance on the brewing scene of innovative beers with real character and flavour but which do not conform to the strict guidelines laid down by CAMRA as to what actually defines "Real Ale".

Not everyone on the current brewing scene is willing to submit themselves to what some would consider to be a straight jacket when it comes to the creation of innovative new beers, aimed at capturing the imagination of a wider audience than the CAMRA faithful, however large their ranks and established in their beliefs they may be.

As a regular visitor to the Czech Republic I have been drinking, and thoroughly enjoying their version of beer for quite a few years now, and in many cases they are not dissimilar to the new breed of so-called craft beers appearing on the British scene at the moment. Many will be delivered from a keg and may or may not be filtered, and some will be what CAMRA would define as 'Real Ale' but drawn from a sealed container in a steel tank, not unlike the manner in which some working men's clubs used to serve their beers.

All of them are delivered to your glass at a temperature of between 10 and 11 degrees C.

Not frozen tasteless and highly carbonated like most standard British lagers.

The point is that they are tasty and full of character, as all beers should be, whatever their post-brewing treatment; method of storage and delivery to the glass, and surely this is the ultimate test.

CAMRA is not, and contrary to what some purists may believe, never has been about the dominance of cask ale to the exclusion of all other styles. It was and still is all about preserving our traditional brewing style into the future.

The younger elements in particular understand this and have little or no qualms about switching from one style to another as their inclination may lead them.

The fundamentalists in our ranks will always insist on so-called 'Real Ale' being the standard by which all beers are to be judged, but like it or not, after probably rightly spending several decades languishing in the doldrums, beers which are not cask-conditioned are re-positioning themselves as the new kids on the block. They are rapidly evolving and their brewers are coming up with innovative brews capable of impressing the taste buds of not only the new drinkers on the beer scene but many of the established ones. The future of beer in these isles can and should be one shared by all styles, as long as they satisfy the drinker.

Finally, let me make the point that not just CAMRA but all beer lovers should take on board. Social habits and patterns of behaviour are changing at an ever-accelerating rate and the traditional British pub as we have known it will have to change with society or die.

An alarming number of them have already vanished from the scene, especially those under the ownership of large pub companies and regional brewers. Sadly I think that a lot more are likely to follow, unless they can adapt to the changing times.

The new threat to beers of whatever style, method of production and means of delivery to the glass, is the dwindling number of places where we can enjoy them, in as safe, comfortable and controllable environment as possible...like a well-managed pub.

I believe that this is the final, and undoubtedly the biggest of the hurdles we have so far faced, and one which we must address as a matter of urgency, if there is to be a sustainable future for social drinking in the challenging times ahead. I hope to focus my attention on this immediate and demanding concern in the future.

Until then, may your preferred drinking style be your companion.

The Budget

Source - CAMRA Website

CAMRA branches across the country celebrated last month as Chancellor George Osborne announced a cut in beer duty for the second year running.

Thanks to the incredible efforts of over 6,500 CAMRA members who lobbied their MP ahead of the Budget, consumers have yet again raised a glass to the Chancellor to toast another Budget for British beer drinkers. Beer supports nearing 1 million jobs and contributes £22 billion to the UK economy, and another cut in beer duty in 2014 will help maintain a healthier pubs sector.

This is an incredible success thanks to another year of fantastic campaigning by CAMRA members on this issue. CAMRA would like to thank local branches for their fantastic campaigning efforts in shifting over 500,000 Budget 2013 success beer mats and posters, and the many thousands of CAMRA members who lobbied their MP and secured the support of 119 MPs.

CAMRA's Chief Executive Mike Benner commented:

"CAMRA is delighted to see the Chancellor implementing an unprecedented second consecutive cut of a penny in beer duty. This is not only about keeping the price of a pint affordable in British pubs but helping an industry which has been in overall decline continue on its long road to recovery.

"CAMRA cares greatly about the future of the Great British pub and it is clear from this Budget announcement that the Government do too.

"Keeping the price of a pint affordable is vital for the long-term health of the pub sector and CAMRA would hope this latest vote of confidence in British pubs will go some way to slowing the rate of closures, by encouraging more people to make use of their local this summer".

My First Year in CAMRA

by Ron Smith - Furness Branch Member

I joined Camra on 2nd January 2013 and quickly realised that this was a seriously good decision and I should be congratulated on it. Well, that's not exactly how it happened but it was still a good thing to do. Let me explain.

Over the last 20 years, or so, I have always preferred the taste of real ale although to be truthful I didn't really understand the full concept of what it was. I was certainly aware of Camra and roughly what their aims were and picked up a copy of the Furness Inquirer every time a new edition came out, as well as other branch magazines whilst on my travels. I enjoyed the articles about real ale and especially the accounts of the travels to various parts of the country and descriptions of the pubs visited and beers sampled therein.

In August 2012 I decided I had had enough of the working life and opted for early retirement, another good decision I should have made years ago. Right, I thought, now there is time to concentrate on clubs and societies that I never had time for in the past. I spent 27 years at sea and joining clubs was pointless as I missed all the meetings. This was followed by 13 years in the office when there was no time for clubs as I tended to be on call most weekends. So nothing was done.

My family were well aware of my preference for real ale but it was quite a surprise when, on Christmas morning 2012, I opened a present from my daughter and found a copy of The Good Beer Guide. Yes, I thought, this is a good present and then I realised there was also a years gift membership to Camra and all I had to do was activate it. This I did and that's why it was a seriously good decision although I have to admit it is my daughter that should be congratulated.

My first meeting happened to be the AGM which was held at the Prince of Wales in Foxfield. There cannot be a better place to introduce anybody to Camra and the world of good beer than the Prince of Wales. One of the things I was sure of was that I knew what I liked to drink and nobody was going to change my mind. What I found, when in a group of members, was that I learned so much more about the beers, the tastes and the brewing processes, that my enjoyment of the beer was magnified. That's worth the membership fee alone.

As I write this I have been to Branch meetings in Foxfield, Lindal, Torver, Dalton, Ulverston and Barrow, using a few pubs I haven't used often in the past and meeting people I wouldn't normally have met. There have been many social trips organised by the branch including visits to Hawkshead Beer Festival, Keswick Brewery, Barnegates Brewery, Lancaster and a survey trip to Appleby, Penrith and Braithwaite. Normally there are stops on the way home from these trips to sample some other pubs which have included Ings, Haverthwaite, Newby Bridge, Grasmere, Cark and many more.

Recently we had a trip to Saltaire Brewery, near Bradford, where we had a great day at the brewery, followed by an hour or two at Fanny's Ale House in Saltaire and a stop at the Engine Inn, Cark on the way home. This trip was organised as a thank-you to all the people who had worked as a volunteer at the recent Beer Festival in Ulverston during September.

This being my first year in Camra, I volunteered to assist with the preparation for the festival but didn't really appreciate the amount of work and knowledge needed to get it up and running. I do now.

Having only attended the Festival in previous years as a customer I thought it was just a case of knocking together a bar, putting some casks on a rack and getting a few people to sell the beer. The amount of work put in by many, many members is truly amazing. From months before, choosing and arranging for the beers to be delivered (there were 83 different beers this year) to building the bar, the cider bar, front of house, arranging entertainment, organising schedules for volunteers to cover the bar, front of house, stewarding, health & safety, glass cleaning and a dozen other unseen but just as important tasks. It truly is a gigantic effort which went off without a hitch. The build and preparation lasted three days with between 10 and 15 people helping each day, which is a lot of man hours (and lady hours) given freely by all involved.

The branch Christmas get together was held at the Engine Inn, Cark, which was a really enjoyable day. The proximity of the station also makes for easy travel at the end of the day.

As we approach the anniversary of my joining Camra, I have already converted my gift membership into a permanent membership and certainly look forward to many more meetings, trips and festivals in the future.

If you are reading this in a pub, as I used to do, and enjoy your real ale or if you have a friend or family member who enjoys it, consider giving them a gift of a years membership to Camra. I guarantee they will thank you for it.

If nobody will gift you the membership you may have to buy your own but, believe me, it will be one of the best buys you make this year. And you will be surprised how inexpensive it is and really surprised how much pleasure it will give you.

CAMRA LocAle

Promoting pubs that sell locally brewed real ale, reducing the number of 'beer miles', and supporting local breweries.

What is CAMRA LocAle?

CAMRA LocAle is an initiative that promotes pubs stocking locally brewed real ale. The scheme builds on a growing consumer demand for quality local produce and an increased awareness of 'green' issues. There are currently over 125 CAMRA branches participating in the LocAle scheme which have accredited hundreds of pubs as LocAle pubs which regularly sell at least one locally brewed real ale.

Definition of Local

The Sustainable Communities Act, which CAMRA strongly supports, provides a definition of local as up to 30 miles from the point of sale. CAMRA recommends that the distance is calculated from the pub to the brewery and should be based on the shortest driving distance. Real ales from regional and national breweries as well as from microbreweries can be regarded as "local" if they are brewed within what the branch has decided as being the local area.

The Furness Branch Definition is as follows:

"All beers brewed within Cumbria, plus those in North Lancashire as far south as Lancaster and Morecambe"

This definition more accurately reflects our low density population. In reality, the vast majority of our LocAle pubs serve beers which are brewed very close to home – especially from our own 12 branch breweries!

Do you know of any other pubs or clubs in Furness Branch area which always sell LocAle?

If so, please let us know so that we can sign them up and give them a mention.

Thank you
Gary
